I want to do something with these items but as it's there can only be 1 instance of each, I want it to be easy to update. I was hoping to create something like this: var results = from x in xdoc.Descendants("measure") select new { Id = x.Element("id").Value, Name = x.Element("name").Value, Column_name = x.Element("column_name").Value, Value = Convert.ToDouble(x.Element("value").Value) } foreach(var item in results) { // do something } This sort of works but isn't really appropriate, is there a way to combine these values into a single statement? A: You can use a stringbuilder to construct the query, though. For example: var query = "SELECT... FROM... WHERE..."; string query = string.Format(query, from x in xdoc.Descendants("measure") select...); results = from x in query select...; foreach(var item in results) { //do something } If you don't want to construct it in string format, however, you can of course simply concatenate strings in the query statement, ie. "SELECT... FROM... WHERE..." + "AND (a=" + x.Element("a").Value + ", b=" + x.Element
